

Intelligent Design vs. Evolution

The evolution theory is based on the philosophical materialism—i.e. the religion that matter is independent from spirit.

However matter cannot be thought without spirit, because without spirit it is not defined and cannot be defined. What is not defined cannot be—because it would be everything and nothing at the same time. (A thing is defined by being differed from everything else, which it is not. And differentiations can only be done by spirit.)

So if we had no Bible we could write the Bible ourselves: “In the beginning was the Word”... “In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth”... “And God divided the light from the darkness”...
